

How You Help The TIGER Fund Without Money

Other than a personal donation, there are several ways you can aid the TIGER Fund. Here are some suggestions:

Save50Lives Campaign - We believe the most effective way we can serve people waiting for transplants is to support organ donor drives. This campaign is a pro-active pursuit of that belief. It can be as simple as finding a public place which will let you set up a table for a couple hours. "Spread the word" and help people sign donor cards. We will help you start something.

Unleash a Tiger - If you are involved with the transplant community, you know of patients and donor families which may need our services. Let them know about us. At the very least we will be happy to send them a stuffed tiger and direct them to other services.

Use Our Web Pages - and tell your friends, relatives and supporters to do the same. We are always updating. Two things will happen:

1) Our news pages will tell of other events which will inspire more action.

Go to our News page.

2) If someone buys a book or gift from our web page or an affiliate page, a portion of the purchase goes to the fund's aid programs. Go to our Gift Page.

White Papers - The TIGER Fund is developing "White papers". It is a forum for journals of experiences and writings about transplanting and liver disease. The white papers include information patients, families and professionals want to share. They can be long papers already prepared or simple notes. The TIGER Fund compiles and organizes the papers for our web page. Patients who need internet help (such as a web page for aid) please contact us. Volunteer to help our heroes.

Mentor - If you are a patient, family member, or medical professional who has the time and inclination to mentor others, we are developing a mentor database. The TIGER Fund has a number of volunteers in Southern Florida, so far. If you would like, we can use your contact information, as a professional mentor (Note: please email us, there is no form yet. Links to the program will be posted with other patient support links.

Finally, The TIGER Fund solicits various fund raisers and corporate giving programs. Some are national in scope. If you know of corporations or foundations which focus on childhood diseases (liver) or transplantation, please let us know. As these develop, you will be sent more information.

God bless you for your interest and involvement.
